MISCELLANEOUS READING. SNOW-BALLING .- BY JOSIE S. HUNT. The soft loose gold of her tresses

Is straying about her face, And the wind through its silken meshes Is running a frolicsome race. Her violet eyes-how they darken and flash! Her rose-red cheeks-how they glow! As she stands ankle-deep in the milk-white drifts, Pelting me with the snow.

She tosses the soft flakes round her, In her pretty, heydenish play, Till she looks like a sea-nymph rising Through billows of foam and spray She moulds the balls with her little bare hands; Do you think she would pout or scold, If I nestled the pink palms down in my breast

To warm them?-they look so cold! Her white wool mittens are flung on the snow, Each one in itself a flake, And ber silken scarf beside them lies, Coiled up like a crimson snake. All about me the tracks of her soft, small feet Have printed the downy snow,

And I know by them where, another spring, The prettiest flowers will grow. She laughs and scoffs when my snow-balls fly Harmless over her head. And she flirts her curls in a saucy way, And crouches in mimic dread. She calls me a sorry marksman,

An awkward fellow, and still The sly little witch knows well enough, It isn't from lack of skill. She knows I would sooner think Of tearing a butterfly's wing, Or beating a lily, or throttling The first sweet robin of spring, Than of aiming at her in earnest, Or hitting her if I could.

Or barming so much as a tassel Of her little scarlet hood. Gay, beautiful Madge! O what would she do If my mouth was half as bold As the crystals which fall on her lips and her hair Like pearls among rubies and gold? Will her pride and her wilfulness trample my love As her light feet have trampled the snow?

That the missiles she flings, which are ice to my face Are fire to my heart, does she know? Sweet tase! does she guess I am wondering now Whether she'll ever be, In the long, long future before us both, SEEDS .- Clover, Timothy, Orchard Grass, Anything more to me

Than a little hoyden with wild gold hair,

And rose red cheeks in a glow,

Who stands ankle-deep in the milk-white drifts, Pelting me with the snow. EG TO THE VOICES OF THE CITY OF ALEX ANDRIA .- I offer myself as a candidate for the office of Measurer of Lamber, at the next election and most respectfully solicit your votes, feb 4-3t2 JAMES PADELEY.
